In a collaborative medium such as filmmaking, in which many different abilities and voices become one, it makes no sense to deny important benefits, such as health insurance and pensions, to one creative group while providing them for everyone else.

I personally support the efforts of the composers and lyricists to organize with the Teamsters in hopes of gaining these essential benefits and to bring our great collaborative medium into one that is equitable and fair for all who labor and contribute so creatively to it.

Association of Media Composers and Lyricists Statement of Support

Composers and lyricists are the only creative group within the film and television industry without union representation or pension and health benefits.

We, the undersigned, support the efforts of composers and lyricists to organize under the umbrella of the Teamsters in hopes of gaining these essential benefits.
